That memories of pleasant and busy Manchester Days may be more fully preserved, and that their recall may be more rich and vivid, we build this book, hoping thereby to pay silent tribute to the many tasks accomplished, the worthy ambitions crystallized, and the true friendships formed.

*"Sow, sower, with free and joyous sweep,
The seed upon the expecting soil;
For hence the plenteous year shall heap
The garner of the men who toil."*

--BRYAN I

DEDICATION

And may we in reverent thankfulness dedicate these pages to the beauty and value of hard and earnest labor—realizing that as sons and daughters of Manchester College we have come in contact with ideals and personalities which have provided much of the background for such an appreciation.

*"I walk with bare, hushed feet the ground
Ye tread with boldness shod;
I dare not fix with mete and bound
The love and power of God."*

MANCHESTER

TWENTY years ago this spring I became president of Manchester College. That was about the time that most of the present student body was born. Since then great changes have taken place in the lives of these students and in Manchester College as well. These students have grown from childhood to manhood and womanhood. Manchester College likewise has developed from childhood into a vigorous, enthusiastic institution.

Twenty years ago the enrollment of Manchester College was quite small, somewhat less than a hundred. The faculty was small. Buildings were few and the equipment was limited. The college was not so favorably known to the Church of the Brethren--much less to others. Manchester was a small college struggling to live.

Today our regular enrollment is more than six hundred while the total enrollment is more than one thousand students annually. More than forty capable teachers make up the faculty. We have good equipment and good buildings. Thousands of graduates and other students are boosters for the college. Manchester is widely and favorably known and her friends are increasing rapidly.

We are now closing another great school year. Both faculty and students have done their part well. The outlook for the future is very good. There is much to be done to maintain the progress of the past. Our enrollment must be maintained and an adequate endowment must be raised. It is a great work and it will be done. I desire to express my appreciation to all who are helping to build a greater Manchester College.

Otho Winger, President

THE AURORA is a chronicle of events. It records in words and pictures the life and history of the school. Since its inception in 1911, the Aurora has appeared annually for twenty years, each edition attempting to reflect the hopes and achievements of the school year it represents. Thus each book has its own individuality.

What is the peculiar contribution of the year 1930-1931 in the life of Manchester College as viewed by one who has seen several student generations come and go? By what memories will this year be recalled?

One impression that has been very manifest this year is the seriousness with which students generally have been attempting to face life problems. "What of the future?", "How can I prepare myself to meet the problems of life?", and "What is really worth while in life?" are the questions that have been asked more frequently than ever before. The acute financial depression of the past year, the large surplus of manufactured products, and the oversupply of labor have brought before the students most keenly the insecurity of mere material wealth. Security of life and enduring happiness are most likely to come to him who has made the "most adequate preparation for life."

If in college any help can be given to the solution of such vital questions, the purpose and function of the college will have been attained. It is my belief that in the lives of the students, a degree of success has been attained and that the year 1930-1931 has brought a richness and fulness which only the future can measure.

Forty-two years ago the present campus of Manchester College was a virgin forest. To provide building sites and campus space for a new institution the larger oaks and, from selected areas, the smaller growths and bramble thickets were cleared away. The most promising saplings of the remaining woods were spared and pruned. These have grown into the beautiful grove that shades the present campus. Timbers cut from the better oaks of the original tract were builded into Bumgardner Hall, the first erected. Later as needs required, other buildings, some more spacious than the first, were added and adjacent lands acquired. These grounds now well improved and buildings adequately equipped constitute the physical plant of our splendid institution.

Whatever our definition of personality or however much we may disagree with another's definition of it, we will agree that a teacher's personality exercises a decisive influence. How shall we explain the greatness of such teachers as Agassiz? It was due not to knowledge so vast, nor to methods so greatly superior, but to personality; for as diamond cuts diamond, so one personality affects another. What influences the student most? What penetrates the deepest recesses of his life and works lasting changes there? There can be but one answer--the personality of his teacher. And at the very center of the Christian's life is the Personality of the Master Teacher.

School of Education

The ultimate test of how much and what kind of education a man has is to be found in the type of life he lives in private and in public. A man is not educated in any direction unless his conduct-controls have been vitally affected. One has not really learned a fact, a truth, a principle, a law, or any other learnable thing unless he believes it to the extent of allowing it to change his attitudes, ideals, points-of-view, or daily living. If through daily experience an individual becomes convinced of the worth of certain desirable traits or qualities of citizenship in a country or in the Kingdom of God, he may be said really to know such traits and qualities.

J. G. MEYER

Ever our educational systems are growing and branching out into new and greater fields of service. One of the most encouraging phases of this growth today is that which deals with adult education. This movement emphasizes the need for wider intellectual activity after school and college days are over. The increasing interest in this problem was shown last year when the first international conference of Adult Education convened in England. Our own American Association in its fifth annual meeting also had a most constructive program. We must organize our various educational agencies to develop in all classes of people an interest in greater intellectual, social, and spiritual development throughout life. Then, and only then, will our educational system be functioning so as to meet the full need.

Manchester Trustees

IN a democracy like ours here in America we become accustomed to several administrative bodies: legislative, judicial, and executive. The administration of a college is somewhat similar--there must be men to engage in the business of legislation and there must be those who administer, and wise is he who can demonstrate that the one can fully succeed without the steadying help of the other. Thus it is that behind the familiar scenes of the hustle and bustle of college life is this group of trustees. Though seldom seen, they are, nevertheless, a vital part of our college. Just as the wheels hidden in the watch make the hands go round and mark accurate time, so it is this board of trustees which behind the scenes keeps the affairs of Manchester College running smoothly. Much of the growth and progress of our Alma Mater is due to the untiring efforts of these men and to their deep interest in our welfare. Just now they are bending their efforts in a great endowment drive. Ever their attention is centered upon making Manchester a better place for youth to spend four years of rich and meaningful college life.

Class of 1931

ON September 4, 1927, a group of some two hundred new students appeared on Manchester's campus to begin their college career. For the first time in the history of the college the freshmen class came early to spend a few days getting acquainted with each other and also learning to adjust themselves to their new college environment. But soon Freshman Week was over and the upper classmen were returning. Here was a whole new crowd for the younger students to meet. And then came the enrollment period, and life settled down to ordinary college routine. Early in the year they selected Joseph Stoner to head their class. To show that they had become a group of really enthusiastic Manchesterites they won the prize of the Aurora drive and consequently had a big party in the social room. With the exception of an occasional ducking and a few rather minor incidents which might occur in the life of any college freshman the events of that year were more or less normal.

The sophomore year of the class was one of quiet development under the leadership of Myron Kennedy. Of course, it was traditional that they show the sophomore superiority over the freshmen a couple of times, but that was perfectly normal. Several parties were enjoyed, but otherwise the year was one of peaceful growth.

Half of their college life was past and the second half was begun when this group of students once more returned to the campus the next fall. This time it was Cloyd Myers who was entrusted with the guidance of the class. Harman Bjorklund, who had been sophomore representative on the Aurora staff of the year before, labored long and industriously with his staff in the building of the 1930 Golden Aurora.

Class of 1931

IN addition to the honor of presenting the college annual, the juniors have the enviable privilege of furnishing the May Queen, and this signal honor became Miss Ruby Stoner's.

The Junior - Senior Banquet was held in the Masonic Temple at Huntington. Here, for the first time, perhaps, was realized the fact that soon the cordial relationship of the classes would be forever broken, that graduation day was near, that the seniors must in a short time say good-bye--and with this realization came another: in a short year juniors would also come to that place in their college careers when classes are no longer groups, when the identities of Bill and Joe become lost in the citizenry of our nation.

Tom Jones became the political leader of his senior class. He and his stately body were almost immediately involved in the complicated job of choosing senior jackets. The class was the first one ever to wear the new standard ring adopted in the latter part of last year. Ditch Day was a surprise move this year. Instead of waiting for April showers to bring spring fever, Tom and his class elected to walk out during the beautiful autumn weather of 1930. Hikes, much to eat, and a big show at Fort Wayne furnished the exclamation points for this day.

The class feels that much of the pleasure and success of its four years can be traced to its sponsors, Professor Schutz and Dr. L. M. Hoff--success and pleasure which has come not only to the class as a whole but to individual members. Problems have been met, it is true, but not to the discouragement of effort; friendships have been formed, and information and experience have been gained: all of this has been an experiment in living, the final solution of which will come in the fruition of the life to follow college.

Junior Class

JUST three short years ago, on September 7, 1928, there arrived on our campus a new group of students who were destined to later become the juniors of whom we now speak. During Freshman Week they made friends among themselves and became somewhat acquainted with the campus and with college life. Later when the upperclassmen arrived more new friends were made and then things settled down to a steady routine. Under the leadership of Edson Fish and the paternal guidance of Prof. F. R. Conkling, the days passed in quick succession, and the end of the year came all too quickly.

The next fall came, and with it the return of these students to the campus to find that they were now sophomores and that a new class of freshmen had filled their place of the previous year. Soon events were running along on schedule again, and Keith Jones had been selected to head the class. Outstanding among the triumphs of this year were: the winning of the Aurora snap-shot page contest, the securing of the pennant for first place in the interclass athletic tourney, and the acquisition of the cup for first place in the interclass debate tournament.

Another autumn came and sophomores were now juniors-- juniors who were willing and able to do their share in promoting the affairs of the campus. This time Kenneth Kintner was elected president. Among the outstanding accomplishments were the publication of the Aurora, and the Junior-Senior Banquet. As the year closes, each junior is looking forward toward the last and crowning year of a college career.

From Our Junior Poet Laureate

KATHRYN WRIGHT

HOMEcoming

(To Prof. Fred Conkling)

I have looked out from windows many places;
On pasture lands brown-bordered by a wood;
At moons crossed over with bare-tree-bough laces;
On meetings where some loud-voiced speaker stood
On city streets; to seaward where the waves
Dash up against the skyline and there fall;
And once across a place of many graves,
Serenely verdant.

I have looked out from windows many places,
But never from a window have I seen
A dearer thing than these loved oaks or found
How sweet could be the passing forms and faces,
For only late I learn how much they mean
And love our campus as a holy ground.

INCOGNITO

I eat an apple in the street;
I munch a common pear:
I do as I have wished to do
Without a crushing stare.

I sit awhile upon a bench
And watch the men who pass;
I sleep in some forbidden stack,
I hobnob with the grass.

I ask my way of beggar boys;
In humble eating places
I sit and watch the moods that change
Or fix the diners' faces.

I hurry with a crying mob;
I love men as my brothers;
And everywhere I pause I give
Some part of me to others.

I find a God in overalls
Who overshadows Him
I found in a cathedral's dusk
Where He was vague and dim.

My hand goes up to anyone!
This little time I dare
To eat my apples in the street
And munch my bourgeois pear.

ON A CRISP DAYBREAK

A frosty morning! Let me out to walk!
Along the sidewalks every blade will be
White-cripsed and twinkling; every flower-stalk
Will stand a-glisten for the sun to see.

The smokes of many chimneys through the chill
Will wave up slowly, pondering, to heaven;
And on the roofs of many houses will
Be lapped frail manna which the night has given.

ELEGY FOR A YOUNG GIRL

(For Mary Bowman)

She will never feel the flowers'
Hovering fragrance on the hours.
What she knows now no one shares,
No one knows what wings she wears.
Do not whisper, "She wore pink
So becomingly," but think
How her smile could lift you up,
Pour swift radiance for your cup.
You'll meet pink down any mile;
No one else may wear her smile.
Give her rosebuds not for smelling,
Rosebuds with few petals swelling.
Bring your flowers, hushed and still;
She can't see them -- but you will.

THE GUESTS

The House of Happiness is opened wide:
Each day the door awaits your guest-like knock,
And in each window every eventide
Soft candles' flames invite you to unlock
The door and find the hominess inside--
The friendly pictures and the patient clock
That counts the singing minutes as they glide,
Each vase, each plate, each homely earthen crock.

The House of Happiness is opened wide,
Yet each of us who enters through its door
Stays but a little while, as some good friend
Who comes from some far place, some lonely ride,
To spend the night, or two sweet nights, before
He goes away refreshed by that week-end.

COLOR OF CLOTH

Why is it grief is always dressed
In sad nun's black?
And why should purple-mantled pain
Bright, shining garments lack?
And who can tell why joy is garbed
In filmy white,
Or ecstasy in silver cloth,
All-over glanced with light?

TWO IN THE HAY

We sat in the hay,
Warm, dry, and new;
And the sparrow wings
Beat two and two
In the dusty caves
Just back of you.

And suddenly I
Sank down and down!
You grasped for my hand
And tore at my gown;
And when I came up
From the dusty drown
There were wisps of hay
For a wayward's crown!

CLOYD MYERS

Student President

CLOYD, who has very efficiently filled the position of President of the Associated Student Body this year, has striven to direct the affairs of the campus in such a way that the best interests of all the students might be provided for. A growing sense of appreciation of him and his services indicates the respect we have and the best wishes we hold for him as he leaves M.C. this spring.

MANCHESTER COLLEGE is a truly democratic institution whose students share in a government through a group of student representatives who form the student council. The purpose of this body is to solve campus problems, legislate for campus society, and supervise the observance of campus traditions. The council has been most successful this year and has proved its value to the students. It has presented unique and clever ideas in the observing of Freshman Week, Home-coming Day, Culture Week, and May Day, which have won the merited approval of the students. Working quietly, but always keeping in mind the best interests of the student body as a whole, the council has struggled with some of the major campus problems. Perhaps its crowning achievement is the solution of the library problem. Building upon the failures and partial successes of former attempts, the council has at last transformed our library from a social room into a real place of quiet and study.

LAW and justice are fundamental in any well-conducted, smooth-running society. But law without enforcement is a farce, and justice is not. This is as true on a college campus as it is in the state. Therefore, the student body has provided for an organization whereby the rights of the students may be safeguarded, and the rules of the campus enforced. Invested with these powers, this judiciary body, the student court, serves well the students. But fortunately, its sessions are few. This fact is, of course, a great compliment to every Manchesterite. It shows that with but few exceptions we have learned the vital principles of self-control and conduct such as are befitting a truly civilized and socialized individual. The personnel of the student court comprises those students who, being invested with the leadership of various leading campus organizations, have the confidence of the students as well as the qualities and abilities of leadership.

EACH year the men of the dormitory organize for the purpose of governing themselves. In the Spring a president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer, and senator-at-large are elected for the coming year. Then in the fall the men of the dormitory select several fellows to act as senators for their respective floors. It is the duty of these officers to see that the rules of the dorm are kept. These same officials form both the legislative and judiciary bodies. That is, they have the power to make new rules, subject to the approval of all the fellows, and they try those men who have broken a rule and have received a little "white card" for their misdemeanor. Here, in this manner, the fellows learn many principles and attitudes which will be valuable in future life.

As in the nation at large, so here in college the ladies have been given a part in the affairs of the government. This is particularly evident in the government of Oakwood Hall which is carried on by the ladies much the same as the fellows govern themselves in the Men's Home. The main officers are elected in the spring, and the following fall the girls select the proctors who are responsible for their sections of the dorm. These girls, who have been thus chosen, form the body which tries all those who have been so unfortunate as to receive a "white card." To the fellows it seems that the girls are encumbered with rules that are too strict, but the girls are thriving on them and are gaining a lot of valuable knowledge and experience from their self-government.

LET us follow the history of the literary societies starting from the time Manchester college was taken over by the Church of the Brethren from the United Brethren Church in 1895. In this same year, Excelsior, a literary society, was formed. This society was open to both college and academic students, and it held its meetings in a room which is now divided between Philalethea and Philomatheia. Its meetings were open to the public. By the next year the college had grown, so that the group had become rather unwieldy. Therefore, in 1896, a partition was built through the center of the room, the student body was divided into two groups, and the groups became known as the Lincoln and Adelphian Societies. The programs of these organizations were divided into three periods--one for literary work, one for intermission, and the third for oratory or debate. During the intermission certain Lincolns and Adelphians met and spent the third period in the same hall.

SIDE by side with the Lincoln and Adelprian societies, a third, the Bible Society, was organized for those students who were preparing for Christian leadership. This society, which met on the second floor, where the music department now is, lived until only seven or eight years ago. About 1912 a student committee met and decided that students who were sophomores, juniors, and seniors should form an organization known as Majestica. After a short life of only seven years this society quietly gave way to the four literary societies as they are today. Philalethea, Philomathea, Philophronia, and Philorhetoria were for the college students, while the Lincoln and Adelprian societies were kept for the academic students. In the year 1922-'23, on account of the small enrollment in the academy, the Lincolns and Adelprians reunited to form an organization known as Excelsior--the name of the first literary society. 'Lethea, 'Mathea, 'Phronia, and 'Rhetoria were now the most prominent of the societies.

Philorhetoria

President (fall term)	TOM JONES
President (winter term)	ROBERT TULLY
President (spring term)	JOHN OLIVER

THE next year the academy passed out of existence, and with it went Excelsior. And thus it happens that we have only the four societies as they are now. With the birth of these, A. R. Eikenberry began his regime as supervisor. Philalethea and Philomathea are the two societies which are "anti-men" or at least "minus men" societies. The fellows have an opportunity for "evening-up" in the fact that Philophronia and Philorhetoria are devoted exclusively to the furthering of male literary enterprises. However, the sheep are not entirely separated from the goats, for Philalethea and Philophronia, and Philomathea and Philorhetoria, are respectively affiliated and frequently have joint meetings. Each pair of brother and sister societies has a banquet each spring. Considerable rivalry exists between the various societies in securing new members each fall and each new term. This rivalry is all on a friendly basis and all are considerate of one another in conducting the drive for new members.

ALL of the societies have similar literary aims. The programs feature literary numbers of various sorts--music, readings, speeches, orations, plays, debates, and impromptu and extemporaneous speeches. Often practice in parliamentary drill is a part of the literary activities. While the societies have like purposes their mottos differ to some extent. Philaletheans say, "Truth conquers all things"; Philomatheia just as insistently says, "Give something; receive something". Philophronians steadfastly maintain, "Strength united--stronger". Philorhetorians not wishing to be separated from their sister society even in motto believe, too, in "Give something; receive something". During the last few years, the societies have held a contest each spring to decide the ownership of the cups. However, upon the suggestion of the faculty literary committee, it seems that from now on the time and energy spent in rivalry will be used toward a joint, cooperative program. Here, again, our societies are taking a step forward.

THE purpose which our Y.M.C.A. actively strives to carry out is three-fold. It seeks to promote a positive moral and religious college spirit, to lead students to faith in God, and to challenge students to devote themselves in united efforts toward making the will of God effective in human society. This year it has sponsored a series of unusually high type programs, many of which have been open discussions of some of the more pertinent problems facing youth today. Then, too, the Y.M. cooperates with the Y.W. in conducting weekly morning periods of meditation, in putting on, throughout the year, wholesome parties for the entire student body, and in bringing speakers of note to our campus. Among these this year was President V. F. Schwalm, of McPherson, who was with us three days. Perhaps the outstanding event of each year is the Fathers and Sons' banquet where "dads and lads" learn to know each other and to appreciate each other a little better.

OUR Y.W.C.A. is composed of girls who have united to realize full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God. They believe in the threefold life and strive to develop each part--the spiritual, physical, and intellectual--so that the result will be a well-balanced whole. Through their weekly programs the girls find Christian attitudes with which to meet the everyday problems of life. At the beginning of the year each of the girls takes over the pleasant little task of being a "big sister" to one or two of the new girls on the campus. Thus a friendly spirit at once breaks down the barrier between the new and the old students. This same friendly spirit carries over into the relationship and co-operation with the Y.M.C.A. The climax of the year is reached in the Mothers and Daughter's Banquet where mothers and daughters are brought into a closer friendship and palship with each other.

AMONG the newer organizations on our campus is the Mathematics Club, this being only its second year. But already it has become one of the stronger clubs of the campus. Last year, friends of mathematics, both professors and students, realizing that an increased understanding and appreciation of this field was to be desired, created the organization. Its purpose, as in the case of all of our clubs, is not to entertain its members, but to broaden their knowledge in their chosen field. It seeks to give interesting and related materials for which there is no time during the class hour. The meetings are held once each month and are enthusiastically appreciated by all the "friends of figures." Thus the mathematics department is seeking to become more unified and to develop a greater spirit of cooperation among its students and between its professors and students.

CLUBS may come and clubs may go, but still in our midst remains our Science Club. Organized when clubs were a novelty and literary societies a necessity, this club has weathered the storms of the years and has been strengthened thereby. The purpose of this organization is two-fold: to bring about a better cooperation and understanding between the various departments of science on our campus, and to acquaint its members with the important and recent scientific developments. Not entertainment, then, but the imparting of additional and valuable information is its real aim. Meetings are held twice each month, and new officers are elected twice each year. The work of the club is largely that of students, but a part of each program is in charge of a professor. Thus professors and students are brought into closer contact in their mutual search for a greater knowledge and a better understanding of things scientific.

TODAY, as never before, we as individuals are becoming more and more citizens of the world rather than merely citizens of a nation. Consequently, we are being faced by the great problems of the world which must be studied and intelligently met. Last year, in cooperation with the Carnegie Foundation, there was formed on our campus the International Club whose purpose is to bring its members to a better understanding of these great world problems. Not only are speakers of national and international note brought to the campus by this enthusiastic organization, but definite studies are made by the group. This year considerable emphasis has been placed upon the study of "Peace" because it is felt that this is probably the most pertinent problem facing the world today. The members of the club are thus trying to build up for themselves and others a philosophy of peace which will carry them through any crisis which may come.

After some time, the work was dropped until in the fall of 1916 the women, both faculty members and faculty members' wives, organized what is known as the "College Woman's Club." Its object was, and still is, "to promote sociability and stimulate general culture among its members, students, and other groups." In 1918 the work was largely Belgian Relief Work and the support of a French orphan girl. In the year 1921-'22 these ladies established and furnished the girls' rest room. This year, among other things, the club helped in making possible the boys' parlor. The programs of the club are very interesting, being both instructive and educative. Forty-four active members, four associate members, and nine honorary members carry on the work this year, under the leadership of Miss Doner, the Dean of Women. Two years ago last October those students majoring in Latin met and with the aid of Dr. Reber, ushered in the Classical Club. The original motto, "Fit via vi", and purpose--that of studying and appreciating ancient and classic peoples, classic authors, and ancient cities, and that of striving to enhance social culture--are still dominant factors in the club. This year twenty-five students belong to the group. Upon the fifteenth of October, 1930, people all over the world were honoring the poet Vergil. The Classical Club spent the whole first term studying this poet, his works, and his influence. On October fifteenth the Club celebrated the two thousandth anniversary of his death with a Latin breakfast. During the second term, interest centered about the poet Horace and ancient mythology, all of which has provided a most interesting study.

PARLEZ-VOUS francais? No? Well, it's plain that you aren't a member of Le Cercle Francais, for within the closed doors of its meetings only the French tongue is supposed to be used. The club is a sort of experiment station for our French department. Members correspond with French boys and girls and exchange stamps, pictures, style notes, and other things of interest. French songs, proverbs, art exhibits, spell-downs, ciphering matches, and extemporaneous speeches are a few of the attractions on the programs. Two programs of the year have been unusually good. One was the presentation of a French play in which Prof. Reed himself had a part. In February the club observed Mardi Gras with a party in the social room. French refreshments were served. Prof. F. E. Reed sponsors the organization and much of the club's success in this, its second year, has been due to his interest and originality.

DUE to much sentiment which has been current on the campus during the last year or two the "M" Association was reorganized this year and is now once more a live organization. There was a time, perhaps within the memories of a very few of the students, when this association had been quite active. But it had died and only the name remained with us. Now a new constitution has been drawn up and the organization is again on a working basis. Only juniors and seniors who have won a letter the year previous in some form of inter-collegiate activity are eligible to join. Thus the organization is made honorary and it is a real privilege to become a member. The chief purpose of the association is to keep alive the spirit of contest--of clean sportsmanship--of right intercollegiate relations.

The rest of the staff were chosen this fall by the student body. Since that time there has been some change in the personnel of the various editors, but the policy of the paper has remained unchanged. Such columns as "Escapes from the Pen", "News Flashes", and "Spartanity" have made their appearance, and interesting features have livened this paper. Mr. Wenger deserves much credit for his excellent work; there have never been more compliments paid the paper than have been this year. As each class passes through Manchester College it is given the privilege of publishing an annual. This volume, published in the junior year, has as its purpose the recording of the major activities of the campus year and the putting of these activities together in such an attractive and interesting manner that the whole will provide for students, faculty, and friends a book not only to be appreciated upon its immediate appearance, but increasingly to be cherished as years tend to mellow the experiences of past college days. This yearly enterprise of publishing an Aurora is not, by far, the most worthwhile activity on the campus, but it is not without its worth. Business experience, contacts, the pursuing of common interests, the exercise of initiative and originality, are some of the valuable results of such an undertaking, to say nothing of the value of the book itself, both to its individual owners and the school whose life and spirit it should embody if it is to truly be an Aurora of Manchester College.

THE 1930-'31 staff has undertaken its task with a two-fold purpose. First, realizing that Manchester yearbook-building should be a progressive thing, the group has aimed to produce a "better" Aurora--not necessarily a more expensive one or even a larger one. In the second place, the staff has worked with the assurance that the experience and satisfaction that comes from putting earnest effort into an enterprise from which can come at least some small measure of good, is to be valued. In fact, an attempt has been made to incorporate into the theme of the book this very conception--the conception that honest labor, either mental or physical, is beautiful, and carries with it a value which no other one thing can supply. Hence, with these attitudes in the background of its efforts, the staff has builded this book, not without mistakes and errors, but with a hope that the 1931 Aurora has contributed a bit to the life and spirit of the college which it represents.

DIRECTED by an interested and enthusiastic cabinet, and supported by the hearty cooperation of the student body, the Y.P.D. has at last taken its stand among the leading organizations of the campus. Late each Sunday afternoon the silvery tones of the chimes peal out worshipful hymns, calling the students to the chapel or to the social room, there to spend a few minutes in remembrance of the Great Creator and Giver of all life. Sometimes the period is spent in silent meditation, listening to beautiful strains of music. Sometimes there is an open discussion of problems vital to every young person. Again there is a speaker who guides the thinking, or a play which teaches a beautiful thought. But always it is something which the students can take over into their own lives and which will help them live on a more noble plane. Thus is the Y.P.D. serving the students of M.C.

SUNDAY morning and all is calm and still. Suddenly out on the morning air comes ringing the clear notes of the chimes. It is a call to worship, a call for students to leave their studies and cares of the week and turn their thoughts a little while to their Creator. Soon from both dormitories come groups of students who slowly wend their ways across the campus towards the chapel. Quietly they find seats and sit in reverent silence while the chimes cease ringing and the piano begins the prelude. An inspiring worship program follows during the next few minutes. Then comes the class period. There are classes on various subjects, including a couple on the international lessons, all of which are taught by capable professors who donate a portion of their time to this work. Thus the college provides for a large part of the students' Sunday morning worship.

HERE are a group of students who are interested in missions and who wish to dedicate a portion of their time to becoming better acquainted with this field and to doing something to assist in the great work. The purpose of the volunteers then is to keep up a live and growing spirit of missions on our campus. In their weekly programs the members of the group spend the major portion of their time upon the study of missions. Each year they supervise a drive among the students and faculty in order to secure donations for the support of A. D. Helser upon the African field. They also send out deputation teams into the churches. The money secured in this manner is used to support Clara Harper (Africa). Thus this group is striving to do what it can in the great work of establishing the Kingdom of God upon this earth.

THE first attempt to organize a Sunday School at the West End was made in 1898 by the Missionary Committee of Walnut Street Church, in a house rented for the purpose. Five years later this house was sold and Sunday School was temporarily at a standstill. A few years later the college students became interested in the work and they, in cooperation with the above mentioned committee, supervised Sunday School and prayer meetings held in various homes. In 1918, largely through the efforts of A. D. Helser, a building was erected on land purchased by the college, and thereafter the Mission has been under the direction of this institution, although the business men and the churches of the town have contributed financially to the work. This year fifteen students are putting in earnest effort at the West End Mission Chapel; both the community and those participating in its upkeep are being blessed with the results of their willing services.

THIS quartet, in its second year of organization, has been more active than perhaps any quartet ever on M. C.'s campus. During the year they have made approximately a hundred and fifty appearances, averaging four a week. Their programs have been extremely varied, for the quartet has an unusually large repertoire, including a great variety of types of music. They have sung at banquets and have appeared at numerous campus social functions, where they have always been a welcome attraction. Outside of school programs, they sing for clubs, men's organizations, and community programs. However, the majority of their appearances have been in churches, where many of their programs have been given jointly with the ladies' quartet. During the spring vacation the octet made a trip into Ohio, where they were accorded a hearty welcome. The boys have procured dress suits for their quartet work this year and so have presented a neat, uniform appearance on every occasion.

DUE to the graduation of three of its last year's members, the ladies quartet was reorganized this fall and it now has three new members in its personnel. The girls have worked hard and have won for their organization a place in the hearts of all of the M.C. students. Like the fellows, the girls have a large repertoire of very excellent songs and furnish music on many and varied occasions in our school life -- on student entertainments, school banquets, and society programs. They have also given many programs outside of the school and have won for themselves much favorable comment and a very excellent reputation. Gowned in formal white dresses, the girls make a very delightful appearance. Both the quartets are assisted by two very capable accompanists who lend much to the success of the programs. Not only are they known for their excellent accompanying, but also for their musical readings and their piano solos.

EACH year one of the outstanding and one of the most industrious musical organizations on our campus is the Men's Glee Club. There are some twenty fellows in the club who, throughout the year, have spent many hours in regular practice in order to round out a well-balanced program for their engagements. Their repertoire is quite varied and music of many different periods of music history is represented in it. They sing songs from the sixteenth century madrigal type and excerpts from cantatas by the great classic composers, to hymns, folk songs, and sprightly contemporary numbers. The club this year has made several week-end tours, instead of the long tour which is sometimes taken during spring vacation. They have also appeared on a number of programs sponsored by various local organizations. On practically all of their programs the boys appear dressed in their tuxedos which lend a uniform and dignified air to their presentations.

MUSIC is the great international language which can be understood by the people of all races and climes, and this group of young ladies certainly is very adept in its usage. The Ladies' Glee Club is composed of some thirty of the best female voices of the campus. Like the fellows, the girls have consistently practiced during the year to develop a unified program of very excellent quality. They have acquired a large repertoire of selections varying from the heavy numbers of the classics to those of a lighter character. Likewise, through their repeated practice they have developed in their singing a charm which is rarely found. They, too, have made several week-end trips and have appeared a number of times on local programs. Always the club has been received with much commendation and praise for the excellent rendition of their well-chosen selections. The girls, indeed, make a very neat and charming appearance in their dresses of pastel shades.

MADE up of thirty enthusiastic members, the band has carried forward in a very commendable way this year. At all of the home football games this group of music-makers stirred up a greater enthusiasm among the rooters and did all in its power to lend its support to the fellows on the gridiron. Likewise, at the basketball games the gymnasium resounded with its inspiring music. Then, too, the band has a very important place in such affairs as snake dances, and Homecoming, and May Day ceremonies. Of all the musical organizations it is probably the band which is able to lend the most color to a college campus. And our band, with its peppy music, and its members garbed in their trim uniforms, has certainly played an important part in the campus life this year.

Stringed Ensemble

Director

PROF. REX ARLINGTON

THIS year, for the first time, Manchester College has had among her many music groups a complete stringed musical organization. This is the stringed ensemble which was organized and directed by Professor Rex Arlington, the violin teacher of the music faculty. The personnel of this organization is composed of a picked group of students from the outstanding campus artists of stringed instruments. Despite its extreme youth and lack of precedent the ensemble has had a very successful year and has already made an excellent reputation for itself. It has twice appeared on chapel programs, and away from the campus has played for clubs and meetings of various types. Only the highest type of music is procured for the group by the organizer-director, Mr. Arlington. The music, however, ranges from the simple melody forms to the difficult classics.

SINCE the beginning of time, stringed instruments have been the universal delight of mankind. And through the centuries, the evolution of the symphonic orchestra as we have it today has been one of the most interesting of musical developments.

Our college orchestra is composed of students who have considerable musical talent and wish to have an avenue for developing it in their school life. At present, though the personnel is not absolutely constant, there are nearly forty members in the organization. Many times throughout the year the orchestra is called upon to furnish music, and it always responds, giving to us the fine treasures of melody that we love to hear. An able director plus consistent weekly practice throughout the year enable the organization to develop a high type of musical appreciation among its members. This, in addition to the high quality of their programs, contributes in a vital way to the life of the campus.

SPEECH AND DRAMATICS

Pomander Walk

ON May 2, the senior class of 1930 presented "Pomander Walk" as the annual senior play. It was an English play, dealing with a number of interesting characters who lived in the square of London called Pomander Walk. The play was particularly interesting because it afforded an excellent study of the manners of the nineteenth century. Extraordinary stage setting was built which added much to the success of the production. The coach, Prof. Sadie Wampler, also deserves a great amount of credit for her part in the success of the play. The numerous characters were portrayed almost to perfection by the following cast:

John Sayle	EDGAR MILLER	The Eyesore	JOHN STEELE
The Hon. John Sayle	ED SCHLECHT	Madame Lucie Lachesnais	FESTER PELFIDERER
Admiral Sir Peter Atrobus	JOHN BURGER	Mlle. Marjolaine Lachesnais	EDYTH POPHAM

Macbeth

FRIDAY, March 13, proved to be for M.C. students, not an unlucky day, but one of the most fortunate of the year, for that evening the renowned Ben Greet English players came to our campus and gave the well-known Shakespearean drama, "Macbeth." It was, indeed, for many, a dream come true.

The Ben Greet players need no other introduction than Sir Philip Ben Greet himself, who has for several decades been one of the most outstanding Shakespearean players, not only of England, but of the whole world. Although he no longer takes the leading roles, he makes minor parts to glow with his masterly personality.

"Macbeth", that story of a man who allowed ambition to ruin his life, as given by the Ben Greet Company, was splendidly portrayed. Both Macbeth and Lady Macbeth were played by excellent actors. The entire production was stupendous in its sweep and those who witnessed it will not soon forget it.

Varsity Debate

REPRESENTING Manchester College in the field of men's Varsity Debate, have been, this year, six strong teams. This squad of eighteen men is the largest group of varsity debaters in the history of the school, and they have engaged in what was probably the most ambitious program of debates ever scheduled by the college. Keeping in step with the modern trend along this line, practically all of the debates were non-decision ones. Twice the Oregon plan of debate was experimentally used, once with Miami University and once with Bowling Green State Teacher's College. This plan was found to have many strong points, but the general sentiment seems to be a preference for the usual plan. Another new feature of this year's debate program was the college practice tournament held here on our campus. Teams from five colleges--Valparaiso, Anderson, Taylor, Indiana Central, and Terre Haute--along with two of our varsity and four of our freshmen teams, took part.

Varsity Debate

Two fairly long trips were made by some of the men during the year. Early in the winter term two teams upholding both sides of the question dealing with compulsory unemployment insurance visited Northwestern, Loyola, and Purdue. Later in the term two other teams visited Ohio where debates on the same question were held at Findley College, Ohio Northern University, and Bowling Green State Teacher's College. Other forensic frays held off the campus were: one at Taylor on the insurance question, one at Wabash on the conscription of wealth question, and one with Northwestern and one at the University of Michigan, both of which dealt with the matter of professionalism in college athletics. Among our many, many visitors who came to meet us on our own campus were the teams from Purdue, Taylor, Evansville, Muncie, Miami (from Ohio), Northwestern, State Teacher's College of Missouri, and the University of South Dakota. Indeed, a great year in debate has just closed!

Women's Debate

AFTER a year of silence the co-eds of Manchester have again entered the inter-collegiate forensic arena and have just completed a very successful season of debating. Enthusiasm ran high among the ladies of our campus and out of the group especially interested in this field nine were selected to form the women's Varsity Debate squad. One team of three made a special study of the matter of compulsory automobile insurance and debated with the negative teams from Purdue and Northwestern. The other six girls (three affirmative and three negative) debated the question, "Resolved: That collegiate social fraternities should be abolished". These teams met the girls from Taylor and Evansville. Incidentally, two of the girls left their study of the fraternity question for a short while, during which time they prepared for an encounter with two girls from the Northwestern State Teachers' College of Missouri, on the Free Trade proposition. On the whole, the year has been characterized by the unusual quality of the debates and by the increasing interest manifested.

Freshman Debate

LAST year there was organized on the campus for the first time in the history of the college a freshman debate squad. It was such a success that freshman debating was made a permanent feature of the debate department. And so it is that a second freshman debate squad has just closed another satisfactory year. This year there were nine members of the group, and four teams--two affirmative and two negative--were organized. The question used by these fellows was: "Resolved, That, should the United States declare war upon another nation, the government should use only conscripted wealth in the expenditures of that war". The freshmen debates were, for the most part, held on our own campus. Among the schools whose teams our first year men have met are Indiana Central, Valparaiso, Taylor, Anderson, and Terre Haute. Thus, excellent training is provided for our freshman men -- training which is invaluable to them if they wish to enter later into varsity debate work.

Intramural Debating

LAST year was the first year for intramural debating here, and, yet, Manchester College was said to have had perhaps the best contest of this kind in Indiana. The leaders tried hard to duplicate that success again this year. The question the teams debated was: "Resolved, That the present system of installment buying of consumptive goods should be condemned." Of the one hundred and six entering the fray, fifty-four survived until the end of the preliminary debates. The juniors won in both the girls' and men's divisions, Ruth Keever and Elizabeth Grossnickle, and Kye Rorie and Carlton Stewart losing none of their four debates (two on each side of the question). To determine the ranking of these two teams a double debate was held in which each team debated both sides of the question. The men were declared winners of first place. The names of the members of both teams will be recorded on the cup presented last year by C. E. Brady.

JOSEPH STONER

RALPH LAWSON

Oratory

EACH June during the annual conference of the church of the Brethren there is held a peace oratorical contest between representatives from each of the church colleges of the brotherhood. Last spring Joseph Stoner was selected to represent Manchester in this contest. Accordingly, he journeyed to Hershey, Pennsylvania, and succeeded in winning third place for his Alma Mater. The subject of his oration was "The New Patriot," which dealt with the development of man's loyalty, showing how it began as loyalty only to self and family, and now has grown until it must be world-wide. The other of our orators, who has recently represented Manchester is Ralph Lawson who took part in the annual oratorical contest of the Indiana colleges and universities, which was held this year at Wabash College. He, too, succeeded in placing third. Speaking on the subject "Our Gun Employed," Mr. Lawson dealt largely with the matter of our present day racketeering.

ROBERT J. NOFFSINGER

Cable Speech Award

EACH year W. Arthur Cable, a graduate of Manchester College and now head of the department of speech of the University of Arizona, presents a medal to the senior who has been most outstanding in speech activities throughout his college career. This is the highest forensic honor that an M. C. student may receive. This year the Cable award has been awarded to Robert Noffsinger. During his four years here he has been a member of the debate squad, has participated in a number of oratorical contests, and has been active in all lines of speech work. It is in recognition of this that he has received the Cable medal.

ATHLETICS

Trophy Case

HERE in this trophy case, which is in the main hall where all may see, are the evidences of some of the many victories which M. C.'s brave Spartans have won, along with trophies awarded in contests within the college. Baseballs, footballs, silver trophies, medals, pictures,--all tell us of the many successes of Manchester's athletes. How marvelous it would be if here, too, could be shown the moral victories in character and life problems that have been gained by the many students which our Alma Mater has sent out into the great game of life!

CARLTON STEWART

"Yell Leaders"

WHEREVER M. C.'s battling warriors go, wherever their strength is pitted against the strength of our opposing teams, there comes the grand old Spirit of M. C. herself to encourage and spur onward to victory. And whether we lose or whether we win it is this Spirit that gives us confidence for the "next time" and keeps our rivalry of the sort that fosters good will and keen competition. But no spirit can endure without people who will lead and guide it into the best channels, and the leaders of the Spirit of M. C. are the three gallant and peppy musketeers: Stewart, Ward, and Crawford. How they stir and move us to vivacious enthusiasm for our team! When these musketeers appear we grasp our neighbor's arms, beat time with our free hand against the seat-back, and give ourselves freely to the enthusiastic will of these three artists. For artists they surely are. In their contortions they are laughable, in their actions they are admirable, and in short we find them the jolliest, most capable trio of pep artists we could wish.

"Fight on, Manchester, fight."

FOOTBALL

CARL BURT
Coach

1930

SOON after the 1930-'31 school year started, the first call for football practice came, and it was royally answered by fifty men. And when later in the season, crowds assembled to witness Coach Burt's efficient machinery in action, everyone was made to feel that besides there being a splendid job of coaching in evidence, there was also some very fine football material in this group of men. In fact, our team line, captained by Haynes and piloted in the backfield by Chapman, was perhaps the strongest ever to play for Manchester College. Only two games, one with Olivet and one with DePauw, were lost, and these by only a very close margin--a record of great credit to the athletic department of our school. And besides, the boys were given the honor of being for the second consecutive year the "Champs of the Little Colleges of the State," an achievement in recognition for which each member of the team was presented with a gold miniature football on which was engraved "State Champs".

Football

HOWEVER, besides a fighting team and a Napoleonic coach, there was another factor which figured in the success of our gridiron Spartans--a factor which is all too often forgotten amid the applause and cheering as the regulars perform before an enthusiastic crowd. Consequently, to the men who did not come before the public eye in spectacular feats, but who loyally came to each practice and did their best to put the team in a strong and "winning" condition, we express our appreciation and share with them our commendations.

JASON HAYNES
Line Captain

Next year we find our team losing the splendid services of Haynes, Tully, Smith, Myers, Hicks, Hoffman, Rouch, and Cordier. Not only the team, but the whole school is sorry to see these valuable men leave, for it will be hard to fill their places. But yet there will be many other old men back who will carry on with the team, which under the leadership of Riley (line captain-elect) and Chapman (backfield captain-elect) will, we feel sure, again give Manchester just cause for feeling rightfully proud of her Spartans.

FT. WAYNE, Sept. 20—The golden-clad Spartans won their first game of the season when the Concordians fell at the rate of 26 to 0 before Coach Burt's new line-up. Piper raced for the first touchdown after receiving a pass from Chapman. Chapman then carried the ball across for the second tally of the game. Upon a huge hole being opened by his teammates, Watts scored the third touchdown. Then Coach Burt ran in his third stringers soon after which Concordia threatened to score. Manchester's line plunges were hard and forceful but were effectively blocked by the opposing line. Olivet, late in the first quarter, brought the ball down the field and scored a beautiful place-kick. The rest of the game resulted mainly in the ball being pushed up and down the field, with Manchester threatening to score only once. The game ended with the ball in the middle of the field.

The game was played upon the lighted field of the hosts. In the second quarter Chapman scored the first touchdown. During the third quarter Tully received a pass and raced fifteen yards for another touchdown. Chapman kicked the goal for the extra point. In the second quarter, Burt's reserves and Valpo's grid-ironers each scored a touchdown. MANCHESTER, Oct. 25—M. C. Burtmen completely routed the Quakers today in a decisive victory. A series of punts and line plays in the second quarter and then a pass from Chapman gave Piper a chance to run thirty-five yards for the first touchdown. Chapman kicked the extra point. In the third quarter Chapman plunged two yards for another six points. Upon the next kick-off Piper intercepted a pass and stepped off forty yards for the third counter. Prugh then came in for Rouch, in the fourth quarter, and made his points on a weak side play, after which Chapman again kicked the point.

MANCHESTER, 12; MUNCIE, 7

MANCHESTER, Nov. 1--In another one of the most thrilling games of the season, the M. C. gridiron boys won over Ball State Teacher's College, with a score of 12 to 7. The first scoring came early in the third quarter when two long runs by Piper and Chapman, plus a few line plunges, put the ball over, after which time a try for the point failed. During the next quarter Muncie pushed Manchester back and scored seven points, and Manchester's situation looked rather dark. But in the final seconds of the game Chapman threw a long pass to Piper who raced three or four yards for the winning six points.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 7--In the second night game of the season, M.C. Gridironers coasted over the Greyhound team of Indiana Central at the head end of a 26 to 0 score. Neither team scored until late in the second quarter when Piper touched down six points upon receiving a pass from Chapman. The half ended with a score of 6 to 0. In the second half Piper scored twice more on beautiful plays, and Chapman kicked both extra points. In the final quarter Rouch went in for Piper and bucked his way sixty yards for the last marker of the game. Chapman missed the final point.

MANCHESTER, 20; DePAUW, 24

GREENCASTLE, Nov. 15--The Spartans commanded state-wide respect today even though they were forced to take the little end of the 24 to 20 score in a most spectacular game on the DePauw gridiron. In the first half, the DePauw men made two touchdowns only to see their first score followed by a touchdown after a wonderful ninety-five-yard run by Chapman and their second by a sixty-yard touchdown dash by Piper, efforts which brought the score to 13 to 12, M. C.'s favor. The second half witnessed two more touchdowns by the DePauw men, which despite their best efforts, were offset by only one by the Spartans.

Football Awards

MART HUFFMAN
(waiting for a touchdown to be made)

At the close of each football season there comes a time when Manchester College gives recognition to her football men in a very definite way. This year miniature gold footballs, insignia of a state championship, were awarded to twenty-one lettermen. This is the first time in the history of Manchester college that a gridiron eleven has had the honor and privilege of receiving championship emblems. Upon these little footballs are inscribed the words "State Champs". Professor Fred Conkling was also presented with the same emblem by line-captain Haynes, in recognition of the professor's splendid cooperation (as chairman of the Athletic Committee) with the Black and Gold squad.

Those men who render four years of service to the team are always given special recognition. This year there were two: line-captain Jason Haynes, center, and Robert Tully, quarterback--each of whom received a trophy in recognition of the four years of excellent service devoted to the team. Behind these trophies lies the deep appreciation of everyone interested in the athletics of M. C., appreciation for the part that these athletes have played in making our team outstanding in Indiana. The other nineteen of the men receiving the gold football award were given sweaters and varsity letters this year; eight received heavy gold sweaters; two received light gold sweaters; and nine received letters for the first time.

Next to these varsity men, who were thus honored, were the reserves. And these men did not pass without recognition. They were honored with the new small letter which was awarded for the first time, and which is taking the place of the numerals. Thus M. C. recognized her Spartans who carry the football.

THE Spartan colors began to flutter again when the 1930-'31 basketball squad began their schedule. The season started out a bit slow, but a little time brought with it excellent improvement. Rounded into form by Coach Stauffer, and captained by "Don't-get-excited" Chapman, the boys played some really nice basketball.

In looking back we find ourselves deciding that in general this season was a better one than that of last year, especially when we remember some of the teams M. C. played whose records this year were outstanding--such as Danville, Western State, and Ohio Wesleyan. And in looking ahead we find prospects for a still more successful season next year. Smith, one of our "old reliables", is the only one to graduate this spring, and although we will miss his splendid service, yet we have reason to believe that with as many old men as we will have, and with "Big Jim" Riley as captain, the 1931-'32 season will be a bright one.

BASKETBALL SQUAD

Basketball

MANCHESTER, 27 HILLSDALE, 25

MANCHESTER, Dec. 13--The Spartans royally entertained a fast Hillsdale quintet to win with a score of 27 to 25 in an overtime game. The fray was contested every minute by both teams. Piper was high point man of the game with four field goals and two free throws. Chapman scored six points before he left the game on fouls. The teams were very evenly matched.

MANCHESTER, 22 OHIO WESLEYAN, 33

MANCHESTER, Jan. 2--Ohio Wesleyan added the Spartans to their list of victims on January second, when they defeated Manchester to the tune of 33 to 22 in a more or less slow game. The Buckeyes scored their points on carefully executed plays. Manchester did not threaten at any time.

MANCHESTER, 37

VALPARAISO, 24

MANCHESTER, Jan. 9--Manchester's cagers snapped out of their losing streak to decisively defeat Valparaiso's netters by a long score of 37 to 24. The Spartan team was able to work under for easy shots. Chapman was high point man of the game with seven field goals and two free throws. Piper and Dubois were also heavy scorers.

MANCHESTER, Feb. 14.--With Chapman leading the scrappy Black and Gold basketeers in a late Spartan rally, Manchester overcame a very substantial lead to defeat Franklin. The score stood 10 to 3 at the half. Manchester forged ahead just a few minutes before the game was over.

MANCHESTER, 21

INDIANA CENTRAL, 31

MANCHESTER, Feb. 21.--Playing before a large crowd the Spartan basket men lost their aim and fell before Indiana Central. The score at the half was 19 to 10, Indiana Central. Manchester was especially unlucky when it came to hitting the loop. Walters and Riley did very commendable work.

Basketball Awards

THE Black and Gold basketball season was officially closed when the Athletic Association presented the Spartan players with well-earned awards. These awards were not given in the sense of a wage or of a payment, but rather as a recognition of conscientious effort in a game which has made the name of Spartan famous. They were a token of the deep appreciation held by the students and faculty for time and sacrifices and sportsmanship.

The highest honor that an M. C. basketball player may receive comes to men who have been active members of the team for four years. This year Captain Chapman played his fourth season under the black and gold colors, and in recognition for these four years of excellent service to the hardwood team, he was awarded a basketball trophy.

Five players were presented with light-weight sweaters, and two more men received the varsity "M" for their participation this year. Five promising men of the reserves won the new small letter which is given in recognition for the first year's service on the varsity squad.

AWARDS

TROPHY--Everett Chapman.

VARSITY LETTERS--Howard Smith, John Piper.

SMALL LETTERS--Lester Davis, Myron Rager, Henry Watts, Paul Peters, Paul George.

MINOR SPORTS

Top Row--Ross Griffith, Robert Burgwald, John Huffman.

Tennis

THE 1930 tennis team, led through a perfect season by Captain Rorie, was one of the best M.C. has ever produced. The team, composed of Kye Rorie, Bob Burgwald, Tom Jones, Clyde Miller, John Paul Huffman, and Ross Griffith, ranked in the order named, went undefeated, in all dual meets throughout the season, and also made an excellent showing in the state tournament at Earlham.

Valparaiso was the first team to meet defeat at the hands of the Manchester racketeers, being beaten on the Spartan courts to the tune of eight matches to one. Concordia was next to feel the iron hand of the Spartans and was conquered seven matches to none. The last dual meet was a return contest with Valparaiso. Manchester won four to three after a bitterly contested victory. Rorie, Burgwald, Jones, and Miller were entered in the state meet at Earlham. Rorie and Jones advanced to the third round in the singles play, and Miller and Burgwald reached the quarter finals in the doubles division. Rorie was beaten only by Quinby of Indiana State Normal who won the tournament.

Track

MANCHESTER College did not have a large number of entrants in the state track meets this year (1930), but those who were entered made an excellent showing. At the Little State Meet held at Butler University, Walter "Red" Brumbaugh had two close seconds in the one hundred and the two hundred and twenty yard dashes. Only Ramsay of DePauw hit the tape just a little ahead of the Titian haired star in both races. Albert McDowell tied for third place in the pole vault and received fourth place medal in the draw for the two awards.

Manchester made practically the same showing in the Big State Meet at Notre Dame on April 17. Dash men from Purdue, Notre Dame, and Indiana did not bother Brumbaugh for he was again second only to Ramsay of DePauw, who was pushed hard to win the hundred, being clocked in 9.8 seconds. McDowell failed to place in this meet. Coach Burt will find it a difficult task to find a man who can burn up the track in the same brilliant fashion which "Red" has been showing for four years.

Baseball

DURING last spring's (1930) baseball season which was quite successful, the gloved Spartans were coached, during the major part of the time, by Wysong. Baseball is more or less of a minor sport on our campus but it is well supported and followed with much enthusiasm and interest.

On April 26 the boys knocked the ball all over the Ft. Wayne field, and won from Concordia, 9 to 3.

May Day, May 2, found Danville here. Despite Findley's home run and other brilliant plays, the opponents left with the big end of 12 to 3.

Concordia gained revenge on May 3rd by defeating Manchester on the home field, 8 to 1.

May 9, a double header was played at Indiana Central. Likens pitched the first game for a win of 11 to 10. A close score of 4 to 3 lost the second game.

Indiana Central returned the visit with a double-header on May 16. Leedy pitched an 8 to 3 victory, while the second pitched by Likens was lost, 1 to 0.

On May 24, Manchester went to Valparaiso for another double header, losing the first game, 5 to 4. In the second game (8 to 0 in Manchester's favor) Likens pitched an almost perfect game, the 27th man being the only one to get a hit which spoiled an unusual no-hit game.

Inter-Class Tournament

FOR the second consecutive year Coach Burt has fostered an athletic tournament among the four classes of the college. Both years it has been received with great enthusiasm and complete cooperation from the members of all of the classes. Last year the sports included were basketball, indoor baseball, volley ball, and handball. Three new ones were added for the second tournament, namely: shuffle board, tennis, and golf.

Besides the natural interest students have in getting into athletics and becoming participants rather than lookers-on, to which interest, of course, much of the success of the tournament must be attributed there is the fact that such contests form a means for the expression of class rivalry which is wholesome and in harmony with the ideals and principles of Manchester College. Too, the tournament is valuable and very much worth while because it gives ample opportunity for a large number of students to take part. In late years there has been considerable discussion throughout the athletic world relative to the matter of providing for the participation of the masses in athletics rather than letting a select few receive all the benefits to be derived. Our inter-class tournament is a result of this tendency and does, in reality, serve as an excellent means for drawing more students into participation in these athletic contests, and for providing a very excellent and beneficial means of securing exercise.

The tournament has been so planned that all classes have as nearly as possible equal chances. In each sport each class has the privilege of being represented by three fellows' teams--the "A", "B", and "C" teams--and two ladies' teams--the "A", and "B". A point system is used in determining the ranking of the respective classes. Each winning "A" team is given seven points, each "B" team winner receives five points, and each successful "C" team adds three points to the total of the class it represents.

Last year the winning class--the sophomores of '30 received a penant with the name and numerals of the class. So far this year the race has been close between the sophomore and junior classes. As this book goes to press the sophomore class has an advantage of a single point; however, the juniors are planning to overcome this small advantage before the tournament ends.

Men's Intramural Sports

EACH year on the campus there is fostered a program of intramural sports which provides necessary exercise and worthwhile recreation to all who enter into it. Much enthusiasm is worked up as the teams battle for supremacy over each other. There is enough variety to suit the tastes of everyone. As an added incentive, the winners are presented with medals; these little black and gold "M's" have come to be highly prized by those who have won them. Early in the fall the intramural season starts with indoor baseball. Two schedules are played out before the basketball season starts. Next the first basketball league is formed, and is finished soon after the holidays. The final basketball league is then started. After that comes the volley-ball league. In the meantime such contests as shuffleboard and hand-ball are in progress. After the volley-ball, the baseball teams assemble again and finish the season shortly before the spring term closes. Intramural sports are thus a vital factor in our athletic program.

Women's Intramural Sports

THE women of the college have in late years become more and more interested in athletics. Consequently a program has been arranged whereby at least one sport is being played in its season during the entire year. The number of women taking part in intramural athletics is not as large as that of the boys taking part, but the entrants increase yearly, and the interest of those participating is very great. The baseball and basketball leagues constitute the major portion of the sports, the winners of which are awarded medals. Baseball begins in the fall and basketball follows during the winter months. In the spring, baseball again becomes the favorite. Tennis is also one of the games in which the fair sex excels. Both in the fall and spring a tournament of singles and one of doubles (men and women) are played. This creates a great amount of interest and also provides an abundance of healthful exercise. A program of this nature provides for everyone a worthy use of leisure time.

The Hallowe'en Party

THIS year, contrary to the usual parade of ghosts, witches, Indians, harem ladies, cowboys, Gold Dust twins, Methuselahs, and other notables which usually roam on October 31, there was instead a reunion for the "kids". What a mob of kids was there! They swarmed like bees, ran in gangs, whispered in mysterious fashion about little secrets, and even fought! To begin with, they had to endure a tortuous experience through an underworld passage. Wails and unearthly screeches rent the air and running water indicated that this was indeed the heart of darkness, where the waters boiled and tumbled so restlessly. When at last safe above ground, the kids held a great celebration parade and at the same time judges viewed the childish host and awarded prizes to the "best dressed kids," (Prof. Beauchamp and Susan Haynes). A program, which included the justly famous "womanless wedding," was then given. In due time unnumbered doughnuts and a considerable amount of cider, with other delicious things, appeared--and disappeared.

The Winter Festival

ON December 12 the two Y's inaugurated upon the campus a new event in the form of a Winter Festival--an event which, it is hoped, will become an annual one. The gymnasium was scarcely recognizable in Aladdin-like transformation, for overnight, seemingly, it had become a background for carnival activities. Here the people were flocking in curious, pleasure-seeking groups. Various were the attractions. The minstrels drew an admiring crowd as they jiggled and performed their antics. Over in the corner some pretty girls tried bewitchingly to lure the passersby to buy candy and chewing gum. Opposite, the dainty little tea-room conducted a flourishing business in connection with a gift shop. Beauty shops and tonsorial parlors had sprung into being and enthusiastic "barkers" roared thrillingly outside their doors, while cops diligently watched for unlicensed flirts. A little theatre, too, presented a play that was a magnetic attraction. One and all pronounced the Winter Festival a timely and successful affair.

Visual Education Committee Program

THE above picture shows the students who participated in an all-school program given on Saturday evening, March 21, and sponsored by the visual education committee. This was the second in a group of programs under the direction of the committee. The program consisted of a piano duet, a play, "In Mother Goose Land", written by Jane Neff and presented by an all-girl cast, and a number of selections rendered by the college quartets. The program provided an hour of excellent entertainment and was much enjoyed by the students. The visual education committee has been laboring under a handicap this year. The predominance of "talkies" has made it rather unpopular to secure silent pictures for our projecting machines, and it has been too expensive a proposition to install vitaphone or movietone apparatus. In the face of such a situation the committee conceived the idea of meeting the need for Saturday evening entertainment with a number of all-school programs. The plan has been very successful in meeting the approval of the students.

Representative Students

BELIEVING that Manchester college stands for a very high type student, and also believing that students who best measure up to the standards and ideals of the college should be given some recognition, the 1931 Aurora Staff decided to sponsor a Representative Student contest. Furthermore, it was believed that at least two full years of residence are necessary before we may judge a student in the light of Manchester's ideals and standards, and therefore, the contest was limited to junior and senior men and women. For the selection of the winners the committee in charge chose a four-point basis or standard, namely: personality, scholarship, general attitude and conduct, and scope of interests. The student body as a whole selected from the two upper classes the candidates. The remainder of the contest was divided into four parts. First of all the entire student body determined their final selections by voting upon the nominees. Likewise the names of the candidates were submitted to their respective classes, to the student council, and to a faculty committee composed of three professors who are in a position to know all of the students. After the results from this four-fold contest were obtained, a point system, which had been previously worked out by the committee, was used to determine the winners whose pictures appear on the pages immediately preceding.

NEW YEAR'S BLAZE AWAKENS CAMPUS

Maidens in Panic as Firemen
Rush In.

Oakwood Hall, Jan. 1—Gong! Gong! Gong! broke the peaceful slumber of the Oakwood co-eds. Doors flew open. Voices shouted. Hurried steps sounded through the halls. The shrill alarms continued to shriek their beckon of escape from a burning death. The fire engines came clanging up College Avenue. The frightened maidens, seeking escape, scurried toward the main lobby. There their campus brothers gleefully greeted them with cries of "Happy New Year." Was the fire conquered? You bet it was. Prexy put out the "flames".

Commencement Week Observed

Play "Barter" Draws Large Crowd.

College Campus, May 30—On Sunday evening, May 25, Dr. A. W. Cordier gave the seniors a bit of worthwhile advice in the form of the Baccalaureate sermon, while the octet presented several fitting selections. On Wednesday evening the music department climaxed its year's work by presenting a very interesting and varied recital. The spring play, "Barter", was one of unusual nature, being a gripping religious drama concerning Christ's crucifixion. The characters were very appropriate and the presentation was indeed impressive. After a week of festivity and celebration 118 seniors and 106 normal graduates filed into the gym to be honored by the college's last program in their behalf—Commencement services. Pres. Clippenger of Otterbein delivered the address and the ladies' glee club gave the musical selections.

Prominent Seniors Leave for Mexico University

Manchester, Mar. 9—J. Harman "Si" Bjorklund and Robert "Guernsey" Noffsinger left early today for Mexico City to obtain experience in the University of Mexico. They will observe life, both wild and tame, night and day, until they can make some definite findings.

Weather Report

Next Year (according to report from Physics Department): Fair and bright in Oakwood Hall territory; stormy with many sudden showers throughout section of Boys' Dormitory; consistent rainfall over Fountain area; freezing temperatures at times in Pres. Winger's portion.

BIDS MASSES FAREWELL

The Hon. L. D. Ikenberry tips his hat to large crowds as he leaves the campus for an extended trip to the treasurer's office, where it is hoped that he can use his political influence in reducing college expenses.

M. C. HOLDS TOURNAMENT OF ROSES

Large Crowds Herald May Day Program; Queen is Crowned

Manchester, May 2—M. C. came forth on her official May Day in an annual display of beautiful floats, interesting pageantry, and a lovely May Queen. The day was perfect for such an event, and a large crowd gathered to hail the new queen and revel in the glories of the glad springtime. First in the morning, the sophomores and freshmen tangled in slam ball (sophs winning, 4 to 2) after which the juniors won the soccer contest from the seniors, 2 to 0.

Floats

At ten in the morning the crowds pressed close about the steps and along the main walk of the Ad building. At the blare of a trumpet the first floats came into view and the ceremony was under way. The floats indeed rivaled each other in beauty. (Continued on page 2)

CORDIERS ARE WELCOMED HOME

Front Campus, May 13, 1931—Dr. A. W. Cordier, Mrs. Cordier, and Lowell arrived at the campus about 4 o'clock this afternoon after a year of travel and study in Europe. They were met at the train with their new Buick and conducted to the back campus, where they were met by the band and escorted to the front of the Ad. building. Here they were greeted by the student body. Both Dr. and Mrs. Cordier report a very enjoyable year and express their pleasure upon again being at Manchester. Dr. Cordier will resume his position as head of the history department.

Many Are Naturalized as Paddles are Applied

Back Campus, Sept. 26—Desiring to do away with any hazing spirit that might appear on the campus this year, the Student Council set this afternoon aside as the official time for the naturalization of the freshmen. The events of the program included a sack race, boxing match, wrestling match, and the climbing of a pole plentifully covered with axle grease. In the latter the sophs proved superior. Rob Ritchie gaining the prize which had previously been placed at the top of the pole. Nor will the frosh soon forget the "paddle lane" at the end of which a wet reception awaited them—for upper classmen and city firemen, plus an active fire hose, made things lively for the boys as they emerged.

Finally, the freshman girls were given the doubtful privilege of pulling Prexy and Dean Holl through town, by means of a rope of considerable length which was attached to "Scoop" Haynes's highly colored struggle buggy.

NEW ENDOWMENT DRIVE LAUNCHED

Officials Start Million Dollar Drive.

College, Sept. 16—At their regular fall meeting today, the trustees of Manchester College unanimously voted to immediately start a million dollar endowment fund campaign. A committee composed of Pres. Otho Winger, G. A. Snider, and Ora Stine was appointed. This action is most important and should be commended and supported by every student, alumnus, and friend of the college.

Coffee Slowly Scalds Vic- tim; Expected to Live

West Dining Hall, March 7—(A.P.)—Yesterday evening, at the Mothers and Daughters' Banquet, friends of Miss Wilma Bechtold found her in a serious condition. Arlo Gump, a light-haired waiter at the banquet hall, had sneaked up behind her and poured scalding coffee down her back, while attempting to steal the dishes from in front of her. Miss Bechtold was rushed to the "Embarrassment" hospital where onlookers expressed hopes for her. Gump is being held on charges of attempt at slow murder, but refuses to talk concerning his crime.

WHOLESALE GET-AWAY

Ninety Inmates at Large; Ditch Day a Success

Front Campus, Oct. 9—Some anxiety was evident today among local residents when the news was flashed that some ninety inmates of the institution here had made a get-away and were roaming somewhere in the near vicinity. In fact, the seniors really pulled a "sneaker". The juniors were surprised, the sophs wondered why they hadn't been tipped off, and the frosh wondered what it was all about. All this worried the "get-aways" very little as they walked out, divided into three groups, and followed trails to "Ditch Day Field"—out in the wilds of nature where no one molested or was "molested". Before lunch the boys had a baseball game. And then came the eats!

At 4 o'clock the busses, two Greyhounds and a pup, arrived to bear the happy ditchers to Mizpah Temple, Ft. Wayne, where a short but peppy program accompanied the banquet. The party then progressed to the Embroid Theatre to laugh at "Half Shot at Sunrise". Songs, wise-cracks, and laughter accompanied the trip back to the institution. Officials hope to have all of the get-aways back in place by chapel time tomorrow.

MEN'S PARLOR OPENED

Ad. Building, 1930-'31—This year it has been the privilege of men of the college to enjoy a larger range of social relationship. Through the efforts and activities of the YMCA, the college saw fit last year to appropriate funds sufficient to construct the new Men's Parlor in the basement of the ad. building. The YMCA and other interested organizations have been instrumental in furnishing the rooms. The social facilities thus created have been very much appreciated by the men of the institution.

WOLFORD-RUST WEDDINGS Head Events of Season

West Manchester, Ohio, Aug. 16—At six o'clock last evening at Price's Creek Church of the Brethren, Miss Florence Wolford became the bride of Mr. Glenn Rust. The ritual was read by Rev. H. J. Baker in the presence of four hundred and fifty guests. Following the ceremony the guests were received at the church and later at the home of the bride. Refreshments were served to a large number of friends of the young couple.

WEAVER-BEAUCHAMP

Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 20—Miss Catharine Weaver became the bride of Mr. George E. Beauchamp today at the Trinity M. E. church. The groom is the widely known Prof. Beauchamp of the Speech Department of Manchester College, and the bride is a successful teacher in the Warsaw high school.

WAGGONER-NISWONGER

Dayton, Ohio, Sept. 1—Miss Mary Waggoner and J. Omer Niswonger were married today—the latter's birthday—at the home of Rev. E. S. Coffman. Both the young people are sophomores at Manchester College, and will take up light housekeeping in the Early flat on Miami Street.

CAMPBELL-GARDNER

Plymouth, Ind., March 9—One week ago today Miss Meredith Campbell and Mr. Ray Gardner pledged allegiance to each other. The marriage was kept secret until today when reporters heard of the event and carried on investigations to verify their "tip-off".

SHOCK-MUSSELMAN

Wabash, Ind., March 13—Friday, March 13, held no fears for Miss Corbette Shock and Mr. Claude Musselman as they took on the bonds of matrimony here today. Both of the young folks are students at Manchester College.

Going!

Manchester, Sept. 7—This morning the college chimed rang out Rev. and Mrs. H. L. Hartsough's announcement of the engagement of their daughter, Mary, to DeWitt Miller of Virginia. Mr. Miller is taking work in Bethany Bible School.

Manchester, Jan. 2—Last evening, at a birthday party given at the home of Prof. C. R. Keim, announcement was made by way of Miss Elizabeth Grossnickle singing "I Love You Truly", of the engagement of Miss Esther Keim to Mr. Stanley Houser. Miss Keim is a senior in Manchester College, and Mr. Houser teaches school at La Paz, Indiana.

Portland, Ind., Mar. 29—During a dinner party at the Peters home last evening, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Peters asked guests to solve a crossword puzzle, which, when completed, announced the engagement of their daughter Madonna, to Mr. Everett Peters, of Eaton, Ohio. Both Mr. Peters and Miss Peters are seniors at Manchester College.

Manchester, April 3—At a party given at the home of Miss Kathryn Wright, guests found place cards which announced the engagement and coming marriage of Miss Agnes Royer to Mr. Lowell Long. Miss Royer is a senior at Manchester College, and Mr. Long teaches school at Wabash, Mich.

Beautiful Emblems On Display

Seniors, 1930-'31—The senior class of this year is privileged to be the first ever to wear Manchester's standard ring. The new beautiful design is very well liked and has been received with much enthusiasm.

Alma Diana Miller; 1931 May Queen

Chapel, March 26—This morning the student body chose Miss Alma Diana Miller to reign over the May Day festivities to be held on May 8. Marcela McGinley will be Maid of Honor, and Ruby Stoner, last year's queen, will crown the new ruler of the annual affair.

FLOATING PALACE FORMS RECEPTION SETTING

Voyage of Ju-Sena Honored by Crew

May 17, 1930—Last evening the juniors and seniors left for the Masonic Temple in Huntington where they boarded the beautiful ship "Ju-Sena". Two hundred and forty jolly ship mates gathered around the banquet tables appropriate with their green and silver.

Commander Myers welcomed the crew, and Captain Alexander replied. Admiral Paul Flory dropped anchor, and Rear Admiral Tom Jones commented on the four year's voyage these ship mates had experienced together—of the storms and then again of the calm, clear days at sea. Forth from the merry crew came the Queen of the May, Ruby Stoner, and she assisted with the impressive christening. Professors Halladay and Eikenberry talked on many ships—as friendship, courtship, and worship. The old lighthouse-keeper, St. Bjorklund, high up in his outlook, spun many yarns to his daughter, Edith Byerly, about the crew that was on board the "Ju-Sena". The jolly "gobs" entertained the merry company with "ditties" of the sea, using as their theme, "Barnacle Bill the Sailor". The College Men's Quartet and the Warsaw Apache Orchestra furnished the evening's music.

BANQUETS

Speech Banquet

and interest. Though the freshmen duplicated the seniors' idea of a garden scene, the Japanese float contrasted so greatly with the charming freshness of the Colonial garden with its many banks and its bubbling spring, that it would have been hard to tell which was the masterpiece. While the juniors chose the sedate and graceful buggy for their equipage, the sophs floated down in modern style in their silver-sheathed zeppelin.

Queen is Charming

Miss Ruby Stoner gracefully received the crown from last year's queen, Miss Ruby Deardorff, and with dignity and ease accepted her rights of rulership for the day. Then there came speakers to laud her to the skies, and singers who proclaimed her praises, while dancers, in the "opening of the rosebud" and the "winding of the Maypole" expressed their joy at her arrival.

HOMECOMING FESTIVITIES

Campus, Oct. 18—A general feeling of welcome and friendliness survived the chill of today and made Homecoming a real family reunion. At eleven-thirty, the day was officially dedicated by services held in front of the Ad. building—a feature which is to become a tradition of Homecoming. In the afternoon the Spartans won over Valparaiso's grid-ironers. The day ended with a varied program sponsored by the junior class.

ROUGH EDGES DISAPPEAR

Campus, Jan. 27—Sponsored by the Y.M. and Y.W., a week of refinement has been smoothing and polishing the manners and attitudes of M.C. students. The climax of the week came tonight when station Y.M.C. broadcast a chapel radio program to a crowd of attentive listeners.

ATHLETICS

DORMITORY SPARTANITY

The cold winter evenings, the rainy spring days, and the dull Saturday mornings are ideal times for the occupants of the boys' dorm to hold their athletic contests and aerobic exhibitions. If at such times Prexy or some other casual observer chances to roam through the dorm, he will find any number of athletic events in full swing. These events range all the way from the attic to first floor and include mainly sports such as football, wrestling and boxing, and such unclassified sports as knife throwing, shuffleboard, marbles, skip the rope, dodge the towel, and wield the paddle.

Each floor is known by its favorite sport and its outstanding athletes. The first floor is known for its knife thrower, Mr. Minnich, and its acrobat, Mr. Ward. Minnich is able to stand at two paces and drop a knife into his roommate's pocket. Ward claims that he can stand under the showers on one foot, balance a cake of soap on his chin, and at the same time hum "Sweet Adeline".

The second floor is known for its wrestlers, footballers, and boxers. Weldy, Johnson, Tully, and Howard are outstanding as wrestlers and football players. Hoover and Weck claim the joint title of champion boxers of all floors while Ikenberry also classes as a boxer due to the many boxes of candy sent back home.

The third floor inhabitants will long be remembered for their art and skill in shuffle board, waste can throwing, wrestling, and boxing. Thompson, with his bed slat and tin can lid, claims the shuffle board crown; the waste can thrower withholds his name; and Eshelman, Hesser, and Byerly wish recognition as boxers and wrestlers.

May the spirit of the ancient Spartans be prolonged from generation to generation by the occupants of the boys' dorm!

—Anon.

Miller Vs. Throne—Championship Contest

Apr. 1—Many people gathered on the back campus this afternoon to witness the championship Leap Frog contest between Mabel Miller and Mildred Throne. Head work and quick decisive foot work gave Miller the edge in the final minutes of the game. She is now heralded as the State Champ. Mr. Paul Noffsinger officiated.

Manchester-DePauw

Greencastle, Ind., Nov. 15—Today a determined little band of Spartan athletes journeyed down to Greencastle to battle with the pigskin warriors of DePauw University. The hazy sky and heavy atmosphere detracted nothing from the spirit of the M. C. men. They fought as they had never fought before. Chapman and Piper in the backfield and Haynes and Stine in the line played especially well, but every Manchester man made a name for himself by his fight and courage. Football fans will not soon forget "Chatty's" ninety-five yard run for a touchdown. The final gun sounded with Manchester on the short end of a 24 to 20 score, but the Spartans have ascended to new heights in Indiana football.

GRIDIRON MEN GIVEN AWARDS

Men's Parlor, Dec. 19—Coming together again after a vacation of four weeks, the Spartan grid men were guests of the Athletic Association at which time they received awards as fitting tributes for the Little College Champions of Indiana. Coach Burt presented letters to nineteen regulars, and trophies to two four-year players. Then came the surprise. Twenty-one men received the little but important emblems (gold footballs) as the final tribute to their supremacy. Small letters were awarded to twenty-four reserves on the squad.

IKKEY ENJOYS BUSINESS BOOM

Aurora Drive Is Launched.

Chapel, Feb. 5—This morning a little old Jew put in his appearance at Paris (chapel) and did his level best to interest passers-by in his little news stand. No one seemed to heed the poor old fellow's commonplace wares, but asked for the new American book just off the press. Upon finding that he did not have copies of it, they walked on into the little cafe next door. Ikkey became desperate! Ten dollars was an outrageous price to pay for a phone call back to America, ordering a carload ("Conkling's old grey bus full") of the 1931 Aurora, but it had to be done. In a few minutes a new "rocket-machine" landed in Ikkey's back yard, containing a sample copy of the desired book. The old Jew immediately spread a campaign of Auroraization with the little "Ikies" as salesmen. An old organ grinder who led an uncontrollable monkey, aided in the collecting of orders. Ikkey divided Paris into six divisions of alphabetical arrangement; section one was treated to candy bars for being the one to buy the greatest percentage of books.

SENIORS LEAVE MEMORIAL

College, May 30, 1930—The senior class of 1930 gave to the college as their memorial, a much needed endowment of $1,500. This gift will aid somewhat in preparing the college for entrance into the North Central Association. In addition to this, the class financed a five hundred dollar landscaping project. Shrubbery has been planted at various places about the campus and it adds greatly to the beauty of the school. The committee in charge was Myron Kennedy, Kieth Howard, and J. Russell Bright.

DIGNITY LOST

Eds and Co-eds Resume Childish Habits

Gymnasium, Oct. 31—Last evening the college celebrated Hallowe'en somewhat differently than has been customary. The whole student body, as well as some of the faculty, discarded their stately apparel and garbed themselves "kid fashion"—overalls, sun bonnets, half-sox, stiff white aprons, hair ribbons, scull caps, and all sorts of childish makeup were to be witnessed.

Upon entering Child-Land the youngsters were confronted with skeletons, spooks, cold blasts of wind, falling water, total darkness, screams, and finally complete silence. Then came the grand parade and the judging of the best costumed people on the floor. Prof. Beauchamp and Susan Haynes were chosen as winners of the first prizes. After the serving of refreshments, "The Womanless Wedding" was presented.

PRICE---YOUR GOOD WILL

REFUGEES--Prominent U.S. senators spent a quiet vacation up among the Black Hills. All they have with them is a "Studebaker," some "Campbell" Tomato Soup, a domestic "Ferne" or two, and some matches for a "Beahm" of light now and then.

EVERYBODY HAPPY?--If not, cheer up! Rolling pins, wash boards, dish pans, etc., efficiently used by smiling maidens like these give the worst pessimist a hint that the "good old days" aren't all gone.

WILLIAM C. BRYANT'S BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED--"To him who in the love of nature holds communion with her visible forms, she speaks a various language."

AT LAST--"Oozie" and "Doozie" the two new NUT radio hits are scheduled to appear in person tonight at Oakwood Hall. Miss Alma Wise is also to be present.

ENJOYING OLD SOL'S "GOOD MORNING"--The "P.J." Sisters pose for the camera while taking their morning beauty sun-bath. "Bubbles" and "Troubles," their two pet poodles, accompany them, quite nonchalantly.

ONLY GOOD FRIENDS-- Having completed the new photoplay, "Marcella and the Crook," the two movie stars, Emerson Ward and Marv Clark, spend a few quiet days resting up.

"SPRING IS COME" - Today for the first this spring, inmates of the local institution were allowed to get out and enjoy the fresh air. Very close guard was kept over them, although there was no evidence of violence shown even on the part of those who are habitually problems in discipline.

(Published only by permission of R. C. Wenger and other caretakers.)

PLAY! - Large crowds applaud as Director Kraning leads his "Black and Gold" band in "Hail! Hail!" before the National Convention of College Tooters. Mr. Kraning is rapidly drawing the eyes of leading music critics. Miss Helen Schell and others predict for him a very bright future.

ROYALS TAKE SHORT VACATION

The Princess Miller (soon to be crowned Queen), accompanied by the Earl of Garver and his Lady Lehman, enjoys a "Fish"-ing trip in the South Sea Islands, prior to the day of the crowning. The Madame Shelby Stevens from Paris chaperones.

"WHO'S WRIGHT?"

Arlo Gump, recently happily married (right) is now in great anxiety. Upon returning home late yesterday evening he found, in place of the customary bowl of soup a "goodbye" note along with the photograph shown below. Identity of the third party is not known for sure; however, police think him to be K. E. Kintner who is wanted in Huntington for "desertion."

"CALL TO ARMS"

Every evening after supper in the little town of "Petersville" (old parlor), one may witness a sort of Homecoming in which at least two or more old friends come together and talk on subjects of common interest. Soon, however, things quiet down and only "contented little whispers" are heard - - - until finally the chimes ring out, and then folks once more return to their separate ways.

"AMONG THE MISSING"--Little Mary Lois Stockton of Oakwood Hall came up missing yesterday. Identification should be easy; she travels without baggage. Miss Wise, her guardian angel, anxiously awaits news concerning her.

WINNERS--Jimmie Erbaugh, (a Chicago school boy), and his whirlwind trotter broke all records in the late Chicago Amateur Derby. Extra prizes were awarded this pair, due to the fact that they are the first red-haired couple ever to win in such an event.

RIBBONS
Russell Compton's "socialized" steer, "Communistie," was today judged the most up-to-date and modern animal ever to enter Swift & Co.'s Packing house. In order to cut down traveling expenses, "Communistie" was allowed to go on through the plant.

"MR. AND MRS."--The camera clicks "Big Bill" Thompson as he takes an hour off and strolls through Lincoln Park with the twins and the Mrs.--Chicago is surprised.

"PENNY SQUEEZERS" TOUR COUNTRY--Made up of seven talented Scotchmen, this troupe of men is thrilling Manchesterites with its "air-tight" programs of fun and frolic. To reduce cobbler bills only one foot at a time is kept on the ground.

HERE WE ARE!--"Berkie," one of the Gem Theatre's flashing little chorus girls, poses in a most charming white gown which she wore in last night's frolics.

TEMPERATURE RUNS VERY HIGH--Dr. Nicholson, head doctor of the Christian Scientist Sanitarium, Men's Home, takes the temperature of a near relative. The doctor fears greatly for his friend's safety.

Attention All! Beauties and Bachelors enjoy sunny Miami Beach

CHOSEN FOR PICTURE--
M. Kraning and Eunice Wyatt take the roles of Gene (neighborhood half-wit) and Margaret Star (a country girl) in the new photoplay, "It Can't Be Helped."

To Our Advertisers

FOR the successful building of a book, such as this one, it becomes necessary there be financial assistance from outside sources. For this we are deeply indebted to all the advertisers whose names appear throughout the following pages. They have indeed been most gracious and generous in their cooperation with the Aurora Staff this year. They have given us financial support in exchange for an opportunity to tell the readers of our book about their business. In this manner, we believe, both they and we have been gainers in this mutual cooperation. The 1931 Aurora Staff, then, wishes to express to all of its advertisers its deep and sincere appreciation and gratitude for all of the hearty cooperation which these business men and firms have given in the building of this annual.

THE FOLLY OF PRETENSE

One day Helen Huffman asked Carlton Stewart's advice on where and how to buy some flowers. In an attempt to jokingly play the role of a loving guardian, Stewart made answer: "Oh, if you want some roses, go to the floral shop and charge them to me; I'm rich."

That evening Philomatheia enjoyed the fragrance of a beautiful bouquet—and in the morning Stewart received a bill for one dozen rosebuds!

Moral: Never tell a woman that you have, or ever will have, money or credit.

"My plate is damp," complained a dining hall beginner.

"Hush!" whispered an old-timer. "That's oyster soup."

MUTUAL BENEFIT LIFE INSURANCE CO.

NEWARK, NEW JERSEY

A Company with a wonderful record of growth

Organized 1845

Six Increases in Regular Dividends

—and—

Six Special Dividends to Policyholders Since 1910

THOROUGHLY MUTUAL

"The Leading Annual Dividend Paying Company"

The only changes in the dividend scale since 1900 have been INCREASES--and in addition to maintaining these increasing scales, even during the great war and the epidemic of 1918 and 1919, over nine million dollars were paid in SPECIAL CASH DIVIDENDS to policyholders.

ONE OF DR. J. G. MEYER'S MATCHING TESTS

(greatly simplified)

Place left hand numbers in the correct right hand spaces. One expression may correspond to more than one in the opposite column, but choose the one it fits best.

You aren't expected to get them all, but work rapidly and do your best. Your I.Q. will be based upon results.

HOW THE BOOKSTORE GETS ITS INK

Pat and Mike were watching some bricklayers at work.

"Say, Mike, what is it that holds those bricks together?"

"Sure, Pat, and that's aisy. It's the mortar."

"Naiver a bit of it, Mike. That's what keeps them apart."

"Where Thrift Sets the Fashion"

Constantly Searching

FOR centuries astronomers have looked into the skies searching for new worlds, constellations and stars. Aside from their interesting research work, they have learned much that is of practical scientific value.

Similarly, in the field of student publications, the Indianapolis Engraving Company searches constantly for new ideas, plans and methods that will assist year-book staffs to publish successfully books characteristic of their school and community. The results of these efforts are gratifying.

The Annual Planning and Designing Department welcomes your inquiries for further information.

Friends o' Mine

Friends o' Mine

Before We Part

As the completion of a task draws near, it is inevitable that one should pause to reflect upon the work and experiences by which such a completion is achieved. So with this year's effort, we find ourselves hosts to a multitude of memories which serve as markers for footsteps taken along the way--some steps unwise and plodding, and others forward and progressive. All combine, however, to give a reaction of pleasure and enjoyment to a year spent in the building of a book which, it is hoped, will go forth as a symbol of the ideals and hopes--and more--of the school we love. For we have found it a pleasure to construct for our friends and fellow students a memory book of the year 1930-1931--a year in which cooperation, good will, conscientious effort, and serious evaluation of relative values have been outstanding in our campus life. It is true our work has not been perfect nor the results without error, but through it all we feel the satisfaction of having labored for a purpose which had as its goal the serving of our college and its organizations through an accurate and unbiased representation of their individual and combined activities. Hence, we complete our work with a kind of melancholy gladness, knowing that we have consistently endeavored to do our best, but realizing that the way toward perfection has not been traveled altogether with unerring steps, for we have stumbled--however, not with intention.

But the work is done and we are glad. Will you read these pages carefully--and kindly--and enjoy with us the completion of a task conscientiously done?

—Keith M. Jones
